2010 Biobootcamp | April 29 – April 30, 2010

Apply today to attend the 2010 Biobootcamp. Attendees will learn valuable information from experienced practitioners about how to build a company designed to commercialize bioscience technologies while avoiding dangerous pitfalls that are typically encountered along the way.

There is no fee for this 1½ - day program. However, applicants must apply for admittance and must fit the following criteria:

- (i) inventors or entrepreneurs considering the creation of a commercial entity utilizing one or more specific bioscience technologies
- (ii) University faculty, post-docs and graduate students considering an entrepreneurial career
- (iii) early stage bioscience companies that are working on or plan to work on the commercialization of one or more specific bioscience technologies.
